THE HONORABLE DAVID C. TREEN
GOVERNOR OF LOUISIANA
MEMBERS OF THE LOUISIANA LEGISLATURE
MEMBERS OF THE STATE BOARD OF ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

I am respectfully submitting to you this One Hundred and Thirty-first Annual Financial and Statistical Report, in accordance with the provisions of Louisiana Revised Statutes 17:22(6).

We are confident that our progress in many areas will be reflected in these statistical data submitted by personnel in the 66 parish and city school systems and various sections of the State Department of Education.

Sincerely,

Kelly Nix

PREFACE

The Bureau of Research, Louisiana State Department of Education, is pleased to present its One Hundred Thirty-first Annual Report.

Effective planning and evaluation require good, accurate information. This publication is intended to meet that need. The Report includes data on school funding, enrollments, expenditures and staffing for each of Louisiana's 66 school districts and can be most helpful as a ready reference.

The production of this Report is an attempt to provide a comprehensive look at education in Louisiana today and to report statistics of previous years as a basis for longitudinal studies. It is our commitment to make this Report as readable and complete as possible. We invite your comments and suggestions for improvement.

We have changed from a manual compilation system to a computerized system in the last year. This computerized system contains many more data elements than are reflected in the Report. If a researcher wishes more data than are presented in this report, the Bureau of Research will be happy to supply a tape of the entire dataset at cost.

The outline for the 1979-80 Annual Report is:

A. State Summary
    Section I. Trends in Louisiana Public Schools 1970s-80s.
    Section II. Comparisons and Perspectives - Louisiana and the Nation
    Section III. Forecasting Louisiana Education in the 1980s.
    Section IV. Theme of the Year - School Accreditation
    Section V. Footnotes
B. Educational Profiles
    Section I. State Profile
    Section II. Parish/City Educational Profiles
C. Index

This year's Report includes a new concept: the addition of a short "Theme of the Year" section. This 1979-80 report will focus on School Accreditation, which has as its function the improvement of Louisiana schools.

Whatever measure of success we have attained in improving the quality of this document must be attributed to the excellent cooperation we have enjoyed from the local school districts as well as State Department of Education personnel. Truly, this is a joint venture of the state and local school districts and one which is intended to serve all of public education.

I. TRENDS IN LOUISIANA PUBLIC EDUCATION IN THE 1970s

population growth pattern

Louisiana enjoyed a continuous population growth pattern during the decade of the 70s. While this population growth is both good for our state economy and for the future of education, it is not without its problems. To provide a quality educational program for the young people of our state is a challenge that we must continually strive to meet. A recent publication by the Louisiana State Planning Office[1] indicated that the state's population increased from 3,644,637 in 1970 to 4,194,299 in 1980, an increase of 15.1%. The 1980 figure is based on a preliminary count from the 1980 census. Graph 1 demonstrates where the greatest population growth occurred in the state during the decade. Table 1 details the population growth of each parish in the state from April 1970 to April 1980. It is interesting to note that 12 parishes grew in population more than 25% over the 1970 population figure. This has major implications for these school districts in terms of future planning for effective education programs.

The parishes along the eastern banks of the Mississippi River from Pointe Coupee to Jefferson enjoyed tremendous population increases. The growth appears to be attributed to both increased industrialization and spillover from metropolitan into more rural parishes. Livingston Parish claimed the largest increase among these parishes with a 59.1 percent gain.

Because of various factors such as good weather conditions, favorable labor supply, etc., more people have moved to Louisiana recently than have left the state. Too, Louisiana has traditionally had a higher birth rate than the rest of the nation.

Table 2 represents the number of educables in the state for the last decade. An educable is defined as any child aged six to eighteen who is either attending or not attending school. In 1971 the number of educables peaked and has slowly decreased since. The decrease is due to lower birth rates in the later 60s and early 70s. Higher birth rates in the late 70s will lead to an increase in the number of children aged six to eighteen during a major portion of the decade of the 80s. More information concerning school age children will appear later in this narrative with data comparing Louisiana and the nation and in the forecasting future trends section.

student registration

Student registration trends are presented in Table 3. If kindergarten and special education children were removed from these numbers, a small decline in enrollment would occur each year from 1971-72 to 1979-80. The nonpublic school population has been stable across the decade with a range of 15.21% to 15.68% of the school age children of our state. Eighty-eight percent of the students in nonpublic schools in 1971-72 were white, while 85% in 1979-80 were white. The public schools were 60% white in both 1971-72 and 1979-80.

average daily membership/
average daily attendance

Table 4 details trends in average daily membership and average daily attendance. From 1971 to 1980 average daily membership fell 5.8% and average daily attendance decreased 5.7%.

school dropouts

Trends in Louisiana school dropouts are presented in Tables 5, 6 and 7.

The percentage of students who drop out of public schools did not change significantly over the decade, with the range being from 1.94% in 1975-76 to 2.25% in 1977-78 (see Table 5). Although there were fewer black students than white enrolled in our public schools, they account for a significantly higher dropout percentage. However, this disparity has decreased over the years (see Table 5).

More detailed information on dropouts from 1979-80 is found in Tables 6 and 7. A larger percent of whites than blacks drop out between the ages of 15 and 17, while a larger percent of blacks than whites drop out below the age of 15 and above the age of 17. A slightly higher percentage of black dropouts (37.3%) leave school before the tenth grade than do white dropouts (32.8%). A considerably higher percentage of the parents of black dropouts (76.7%) do not have a high school education compared to the parents of white dropouts (52.0%).

White dropouts are slightly more active in extracurricular activities than blacks, but neither group is very active. The reasons that schools gave for the students' dropout is similar for both races, with educational problems and personality and adjustment problems accounting for over 66% of the dropouts. As might be expected, a considerably higher percentage of females (13.0%) than males (3.8%) drop out to marry. There are considerable racial differences in this percentage: 15.5% of the white female dropouts left school to marry, compared to only 9.0% of the black female dropouts.

suspension/expulsion

Tables 8, 9 and 10 depict suspension and expulsion data for black and white students. Approximately 40% of students in Louisiana public schools are black; however, 49% of suspended students are black, and 48% of expelled students are black. Black students are suspended for an average of 2.38 days per suspension while white students are suspended for 2.05 days. Thus, it appears that blacks are suspended more frequently than whites and for a longer period of time (see Table 8).

Tables 9 and 10 compare the most frequent reasons for expulsion for black and white students. Blacks are most often suspended or expelled for fighting with students and/or faculty and for disrespect for authority (41%) while only 21% of white students are suspended or expelled for these reasons. Smoking, cutting class and playing hooky are other important reasons that whites are expelled while blacks are often expelled for cutting class, disturbing the classroom and excessive tardiness.

While student registration showed a steady decline from school year 1971-72 through school year 1979-80, the absolute number of high school graduates per year increased 2.2% over that period of time. Nonpublic graduates increased 5.4% from 1971-72 to 1979-80, while public graduates increased 1.6%. Public school graduates constituted a steady 84%-85% of the total number of graduates over this period of time. Black students constituted 29.8% of the total graduates in 1971-72 and 30.9% of the total graduates in 1979-80. See Table 11 for more details about the number of high school graduates in Louisiana during the 1970s. Information on the number of students receiving general equivalency diplomas in 1979 and 1980 will be presented later in the narrative.

Student registration during the 1970s in regular and special education categories is presented in Table 12. As noted above, there is a decrease in student registration each year during the 1970s when the students in special education are removed from the population. The overall decrease of 9.8% in regular elementary and secondary education was composed of two opposite trends during the period: elementary enrollment dropped 15.2%, while secondary enrollment increased 4.4%. See Table 53 for complete information on registration per grade level in 1979-80.

The drop in elementary enrollment was a function of the decrease in birth rates during the 1960s and early 1970s, while the increase in secondary enrollment reflected the higher birth rates of the late 1950s and early 1960s. It should be noted that enrollment in secondary education peaked in school year 1976-77 and should show the steady decline in the 1980s that elementary schools showed in the 1970s. Conversely, elementary enrollment figures should begin increasing in the 1980s as a function of the increased birth rates of the late 1970s.

There was a large increase in kindergarten and special education enrollment during the 1970s. Kindergarten enrollment expanded by 79% from school year 1970-71 through school year 1979-80. Kindergarten enrollment appears to have stabilized around the 65,000 mark, which is approximately 6.5% of the overall student population.

Enrollment in special education classes, both elementary and secondary, increased dramatically over the past decade. The increase in elementary special enrollment was 78% during this period, while secondary special enrollment increased over 300%. Students in special education comprised 3% of the total student population in 1979-80, compared to only 1.4% of the total in 1970-71.

B. Trends in Staff and Structure of Schools (1970-80)

professional and non-professional staff

There was an overall increase in both the professional and nonprofessional staffs of the public and nonpublic schools in the 1970s, as indicated in Tables 13 and 14. The professional staff increased by 10.5% in the public and 6.6% in the nonpublic school systems during this period, while the nonprofessional staffs increased by 25.5% and 9.5% respectively during the same period.

There was a consistent difference in the percent of professionals out of the total staff employed by the public and nonpublic systems: The nonpublic system employed about 15% more professional staff than the public (system) during the 1970s. This difference may be partially attributable to different methods for calculating professional staff members, since nonpublic reporting of professional staff counted each part-time employee as a full staff member. The percent of the public school staff who were professional dropped from 61.63% to 58.6% during this period, while it dropped from 76.4% to 75.87% for nonpublic schools.

The black-white ratio of professional staff members mirrors the student composition of the public and nonpublic schools, as can be seen in Tables 14 and 15. Ninety-one and five/tenths percent of the professional staff of the nonpublic schools was white in 1979-80 compared to 65% of the classroom teachers and 71% of the principals who were white in the public schools in that year. For both the public and nonpublic schools, the professional staffs are composed of approximately 6% more whites than the student body.

From school year 1970-71 to school year 1979-80 there were changes in the sex and race ratios of principals and classroom teachers in the public school system, as indicated in Table 15. The 6% decline in percentage of white male principals over the decade was accounted for primarily by a 2.65% increase for black male principals and 2.62% increase in white female principals.

At the beginning of the decade, 74.6% of the classroom teachers was female. This figure had increased to 78% by school year 1979-80. Thus, the inverse relationship between percentage of male principals and percentage of male classroom teachers continued unabated during the 1970s. The black-white ratio of classroom teachers stayed approximately the same during the decade.

The student-teacher ratios for public and nonpublic schools over the past decade are presented in Table 16. The number of students declined during the 1970s, while the number of classroom instructors increased. Thus, the student-teacher ratio declined by 13.86% in the public school system and 9.61% in the nonpublic schools during this period. The decrease in student-teacher ratios occurred primarily in the elementary schools, while the secondary student-teacher ratio stayed about the same over that period. The largest decrease in student-teacher ratio occurred in special education, where a large increase in students was offset by an even larger increase in instructors.

The professional training of the public school instructional staff changed considerably during the 1970s, as indicated in Table 17. The number of teachers and principals with less than a college education decreased from 2.9% of the total to only .55% while the number with a bachelor's degree decreased from 68% to 55.8%. Conversely, the number with more than four years of college increased dramatically from 29.2% of the total in 1971-72 to 43.6% in 1979-80.

Table 18 presents the total experience of teachers and principals in the public school system from 1970 to 1980. The number of teachers with fewer than five years of experience decreased from 30.5% of the total in 1970-71 to 24.4% in 1979-80. On the other hand, the number of teachers with five to nine years of experience increased from 20.9% of the total to 25.7%, and the number of teachers with ten to fourteen years' experience increased from 15.8% to 21.5%. Thus, teachers with five to fourteen years of experience increased from 36.7% at the beginning ot the decade to 47.2% at the end. It would appear that attrition is likely to occur within the first five years of teaching. If teachers remain in the profession after this time, they are apt to stay until 20 years of service has been completed.

The annual salaries of principals and teachers in the public school system increased each year during the 1970s. This trend is presented in Table 19. The increase for teachers was 69.37% during this period, compared to a 46.31% increase for principals. Salaries for black teachers were slightly higher over the decade than those for white teachers. This is probably a function of the longer average experience of black teachers in the public school system.

The total number of public and nonpublic schools increased by 3.0% during the 1970s. Thus, while the total number of students decreased, the number of schools increased. There was a net increase of 57 schools, consisting of an increase of 80 schools in the public school system and a decrease of 23 schools in the nonpublic system. See Table 20 for more details.

As indicated in Table 21, there was a net increase in the number of buildings and a net decrease in the number of sites of public school property during the 1970s. Overall, the total cost of buildings, sites and equipment increased 71.4% during the 1970s, with the largest increases occurring during the inflationary 1976-80 period.

The number of libraries, librarians, and books all increased during the 1970s, as noted in Table 22. There was an 86% increase in the current payments for salaries, books and supplies over the 1970s.

C. Trends in Education Finance (1970-80)

The trend in revenue from local, state and federal sources for education for the 1975-80 period is presented in Table 23. Only the last five years of the decade were included in this trend analysis.

Total revenue increased by 49.92% over this five-year period from $1,054,141,515 in 1975-76 to $1,580,404,985 in 1979-80. The percent of total revenue from state sources decreased 3.39% over this period, while the percent of the total from federal sources increased .36% and that from local sources increased 3.03%. As indicated in Table 24, the revenue from ESEA Title I funds increased by 135% from 1970-71 through 1979-80. In 1979-80, ESEA Title I funds accounted for 5.23% of the total revenue for education.

The minimum foundation program for Louisiana during the 1970s is presented in Table 25. The overall cost of the program increased by 90.51% over this ten-year period, while local support for the program decreased 10.45%. Thus, the percent of local support for the total cost of the program decreased from 10.46% in 1970-71 to 4.92% in 1979-80.

The expenditure of all state revenues (including federal grants) and of state revenues (excluding federal grants) for all government functions is found in Tables 26 and 27. These figures were taken from the Executive Budgets of the State of Louisiana during the 1970s. The percent of all state and federal revenues going to education ranged from a low of 32.61% in 1975-76 to a high of 36.95% in 1972-73. The percent of state revenues going into education ranged from a low of 35.21% in 1975-76 to a high of 42.13% in both 1971-72 and 1972-73. In 1979-80, 36.15% of all state and federal revenues and 40.30% of state revenues were spent on education.

Education expenditures by function for the period 1975-80 are found in Table 28. During this period total expenditures increased by 47.90%. The percent of the total amount spent for instruction and for supporting services stayed about the same during this period: 46% to 47% for instruction and 50% to 51% for supporting services. The largest relative increase occurred in instruction for special programs, going from approximately 82 million dollars in 1975-76 to approximately 154 million dollars in 1979-80.

Expenditures per public school pupil for the 1970s are found in Table 29. The expenditure per registered student increased from $709.16 in 1970-71 to $1,728.06 in 1979-80. Similar increases in expenditure per pupil in average daily membership and expenditure per pupil in average daily attendance occurred during the 1970s. The expenditure per pupil in average daily membership was $1,818.54 in 1979-80, while it was $1,972.39 per pupil in average daily attendance.

Changes in bonded debts and loans for the years 1975-80 are found in Table 30. There was a net increase in bond and loan indebtedness for each of the five years except 1975-76. The increase in indebtedness for 1979-80 was $17,592,262.

II. COMPARING LOUISIANA AND THE NATION

A. Population Characteristics

birth rate

By comparing Louisiana and national education statistics, the relative strengths and weaknesses of the state's educational system can be determined. Louisiana has a unique set of population characteristics, as can be seen in Tables 31, 32, and 33. Louisiana's birth rate has traditionally been among the highest in the nation. From 1960-74 the national birth rate dropped dramatically, and Louisiana's birth rate fell from the fifth highest to the ninth highest in the nation. Since 1975, however, the national rate has increased, and Louisiana's rate has increased at a faster pace than the national average (see Table 31). Provisional estimates[2] of the birth rates for 1978 and 1979 show a continued increase - 18.9 births per 1000 population in 1978 and 19.7 in 1979 - for Louisiana.

school age population

Louisiana ranks fifth in the nation in percent of the population who are school age (Table 32), while ranking forty-seventh in percent of the population aged 21 and over.[3] As a result of this demographic dispersion, Louisiana has 40.0 school-age children per 100 adults aged 21 and over, the fifth highest ratio in the nation in 1977 (Table 34). This large number of school-age children per adult places a heavy education support burden on the adult population.

Traditionally, Louisiana has had a high rate of illiteracy. Based on Bureau of the Census estimates, Louisiana had a higher illiteracy rate than any other state in 1950, 1960, and 1970. In 1976, 8.7% of the Louisiana adult population were functionally illiterate or lacking a fifth grade education. Louisiana has ranked slightly better in median school years completed by adults, percent of adults who are high school graduates, and percent of the population who are college graduates, but the state still ranks in the lower quarter of the nation in these categories (see Table 33). The 1980 census will provide more up-to-date data on the current education attainment of adults in Louisiana.

B. Pupil Characteristics

student enrollment statistics

Nationally, the absolute number of pupils in school peaked in 1970 and declined after that due to the lowered birthrate in the 1960s and early 1970s. Louisiana has followed this national trend: there has been a decrease in the absolute number of pupils in elementary and secondary schools (excluding kindergarten and special education) each year from 1970-71 through 1979-80.

A comparison of declines in public school enrollment in Louisiana and the nation between fall 1971 and fall 1976 compiled by the Public Affairs Research Council[4] yielded the following results: (1) the Louisiana change in elementary school enrollment (grades 1-8) was -11.6% compared to the national decline of -11.2%; (2) the Louisiana percent change in high school enrollment (grades 9-12) was +7.9% compared to the national increase of +4.1%; and (3) the total change in fall public enrollments (grades 1-12 excluding kindergarten and special education) for Louisiana was -6.1% compared to the national average of -6.4%. Louisiana's slight relative loss in elementary enrollment was offset by a relative gain in high school enrollment.

The National Center for Education Statistics[5] presented similar results when comparing public school average daily attendance for the school years ending 1970 and 1977: Louisiana had an overall percent change of +0.8% during this period, while the national percent change was -2.6%. Thus, Louisiana's losses in public school enrollment and attendance during this period of national decline were equal to or slightly less than the national average. Projected future trends in Louisiana's elementary and high school education systems will be discussed later in the narrative. (Different procedures were used by NCES and the Louisiana State Department of Education to calculate the average daily attendance figures presented here and in Table 4.)

Louisiana's recent enrollment figures are compared with national figures in Table 34. The state's public school enrollment was the eighteenth largest in the nation in 1979, and the state ranked fifth in percentage of students in nonpublic schools, behind only Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Wisconsin. The state ranks low, however, in average daily attendance as a percent of either enrollment (31st) or average daily membership (34th). The state had three of the nation's sixty largest public school systems according to a recent report[6] : (a) Orleans parish ranked #25 with 91,298 students; (b) East Baton Rouge parish ranked #41 with 69,144; and (c) Jefferson parish ranked #42 with 68,851.

Table 35 presents a comparison of Louisiana and national pupil retention rates from the fifth grade through high school graduation. Over the five selected years, Louisiana retained only 63.1% of its students in public and nonpublic schools as compared to a national retention rate of 74.6%. This low retention rate explains why Louisiana ranked below the national average in percent increase in number of public high school graduates from 1972-78 even though the state was ranked high in percent of the population who were school-age during that period.

ACT results

Data supplied by the American College Testing (ACT) program indicate that there was a decline in ACT scores both nationwide and in Louisiana from 1970 to 1980 (see Table 36). This decline occurred primarily from 1970-76 and the scores have remained relatively constant since that time nationally and in Louisiana.

A recent report by the Louisiana State Board of Regents[7] compared the ACT scores and high school gradepoint averages of first-time college freshmen in Louisiana with national scores. Although declining ACT scores have been accompanied nationwide by increased high school gradepoint averages, the Board of Regents found grade inflation in Louisiana to be below the national average for the period reviewed. High school averages in Louisiana for first-time freshmen went up 10% between 1969 and 1978, compared to a national increase of 16%. The mean high school average of Louisiana first-time freshmen who took the ACT in 1978 was 2.81 (on a four-point scale), compared to the national average of 2.99.

Not only does the ACT data reveal information concerning student performance in verbal and computational skills but also present information on student satisfaction with various aspects of high school education. Table 37 compares Louisiana student satisfaction to national student satisfaction with regard to specific aspects of high school programs. Among the areas receiving the highest ratings by Louisiana students were classroom instruction, grading practices and policies, the number and kinds of tests given, guidance services, and library or learning centers. The highest percentages of dissatisfaction were found in the number and variety of courses, school rules, regulations, and policies, laboratory facilities, provision for special help, and emphasis on career education and planning. Louisiana students were more satisfied than the national sample in eight of the eleven areas.[8]

SAT data

Comparative figures on the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) entrance test present a different trend. As indicated in Table 38, Louisiana students scored well above the national average on the SAT from school year 1973-74 to school year 1979-80. The mean composite score for Louisiana students in 1979-80 was 961 compared to the national score of 887.

The contradiction in ACT and SAT national comparisons may be explained by differences in the student populations taking the two tests in Louisiana. Louisiana has one of the most liberal policies for admission to college in the nation, and the state requires that all freshmen take the ACT. Consequently, more students with marginal chances of success in college take the test in Louisiana than do nationwide. On the other hand, only those students going to out-of-state universities and in-state private universities take the SAT, while all freshmen take the test in certain areas of the country.

C. Staff Characteristics

pupil/teacher ratio

In 1978 the Public Affairs Research Council published a bulletin entitled Impact of Declining School Enrollments: Past, Present and Future. In this bulletin it was demonstrated that a decrease in students and an increase in teachers occurred in grades 1-12 (excluding kindergarten and special education) of the Louisiana public school system between school year 1969-70 and school year 1977-78. A similar analysis by the Bureau of Research[9] on data from 1970-71 to 1979-80 demonstrates a 9.7% decrease in students and a 2.7% increase in teachers during this period. These trends have resulted in a decrease in the pupil-teacher ratio during the 1970s.

This trend in Louisiana followed a national tendency toward decreased pupil-teacher ratios in the 1970s. The National Education Association provides data that compares the trend for both the U.S. and Louisiana. These data can be found in Table 39. Louisiana ranked thirty-seventh in the nation in 1969 in teacher-pupil ratio and thirty-first in the nation in 1979; the national ratio was consistently lower than Louisiana's except for 1972-74 and 1979. (Some differences exist in the figures produced by the NEA and PAR analyses due to different techniques for computation of the ratios.)

The Bureau of Research in the Louisiana State Department of Education conducted a survey in November, 1980 to gather data for the first time concerning class size distribution for each school in Louisiana. The study includes data from 1,325 out of a total of 1,485 schools in Louisiana. This constitutes a response rate of 89%.

The distributions of classroom size by classroom type for elementary and secondary schools are found in Tables 40 and 41 respectively. Table 42 presents mean classsize by class type. As tables 40 and 41 indicate, the highest percentage of regular classes is found in the medium class size range (20-24, 25-29). This applies to both elementary and secondary schools. Ungraded (continuous progress) classes in the elementary schools are also concentrated in this range.

Special education classes, on the other hand, are concentrated in the smaller class size range (5-9, 10-14). This also applies to both elementary and secondary schools. Compensatory education classes in elementary schools are also concentrated in the smaller class range. Vocational education classes are concentrated in two medium class size ranges (15-19, 20-24).

NCES estimated[10] that 40.8% of the staff employed by the public school system in Louisiana was nonprofessional, compared to the national percent of 33.8% in the fall 1978. On the other hand, only 53.6% of the staff in Louisiana were professionals involved in education (instructors, etc.), compared to 60.0% nationally. Louisiana ranks second among the states in percent of nonprofessionals employed and forty-eighth in percent of professional instructors (see Table 43).

While the state has maintained a pupil-teacher ratio comparable to the national ratio, the estimated average salary of public school teachers has been consistently below the national average. According to National Education Association estimates,[11] Louisiana paid its public school teachers 81.4% of the national average in 1969-70, 82.1% of that average in 1974-75 and 86.1% of the national average in 1979-80. The estimated average salary of public school teachers nationally was $16,001 in 1979-80, compared to the Louisiana average of $13,770. Although the state has not reached the national average in estimated public school teacher salaries, it has made relative gains in rank among the states from forty-first in 1969-70 to thirty-eighth in 1974-75 to thirty-sixth in 1979-80. Also, Louisiana pays its teachers more than the following Southern states: Alabama, Tennessee, South Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and West Virginia (see Table 43).

The state ranks low in percent of male teachers in public elementary and secondary schools. In 1979-80, NEA estimated that 24.1% of the teachers in Louisiana were male, compared to the national average of 33.2%.

administrative units

Louisiana has a relatively small number of basic administrative units operating public school districts: sixty-six, one in each parish plus the cities of Monroe and Bogalusa. This is the eleventh smallest number of operating units in the nation.

D. Financial Characteristics

1. Financial Resources for Education

income statistics

In terms of personal income, Louisiana ranks low in income statistics and high in poverty indicators. As indicated in Table 44, Louisianians earned only 85.7% of the national per capita income in 1978. Also in 1978 Louisiana ranked forty-fourth in personal income per child of school age, averaging $8,000 less per child than the national norm. This low average is a result of the high number of school age children relative to the adult population and the low per capita income in the state.

While Louisiana's per capita personal income is well below the national average, the state is only slightly below the average in per capita total general revenue of state and local governments. Given Louisiana's low per capita income, state taxes are relatively high. As indicated in Table 44, the state ranked eighteenth in 1978 in revenue of state and local governments as percent of personal income. It is interesting to note that these relatively high state taxes are not a function of property taxes, since Louisiana has the second lowest per capita property tax revenue in the nation.

school revenue - where it comes from

The National Education Association estimated that Louisiana ranked forty-second in the nation in public school revenue receipts per pupil in average daily attendance in 1979-80.

Compared to national figures, Louisiana receives relatively less of its revenue for public education from local sources and relatively more from state and federal sources. The NEA estimated that Louisiana ranked third in the nation in percent of public education revenue from federal sources in 1979-80. The National Center for Education statistics estimated that the state ranked fifth in this category in 1978-79 (see Table 45).

In a supplement to its basic volume, Tax Wealth in Fifty States, 1977, the National Institute of Education[12] presented tax capacity, effort, and collected revenue data for state and local governments. This supplement concluded that Louisiana under-utilized property taxes and slightly over-utilized sales and gross receipt taxes. While the state ranks relatively high in revenue of state and local governments as percent of personal income according to the NEA rankings, the NIE report concludes that the state is taxing well below its capacity relative to other states. In fact, Louisiana has one of the largest negative values in the nation for amount collected less potential tax yield. The major taxes being under-utilized are property taxes on commercial and industrial firms, public utilities, and residences.

2. Expenditures for Education

expenditures for education and other government functions

Table 46 presents a comparison of Louisiana and national direct expenditures for all government functions and for education from 1970-78. For each of these nine years, the percent of per capita income that Louisiana spent on all government functions was above the national average, ranging from an excess of 1.1% to 3.2%.

personal income/ educational dollars spent

In 1978, Louisiana's per capita personal income was 86% of the national per capita income. In school year 1977-78 the amount Louisiana spent per capita on education was 87% of the national amount spent. Thus, Louisiana's low ranking in amount spent per capita on education is a function of its low per capita income rather than a lower percentage commitment of personal income to education.

Louisiana spends larger share of personal income on education than the national average

Comparisons of state and national expenditures per pupil in average daily attendance and membership are found in Table 47. Louisiana spent approximately 83.4% to 85.2% of the national average expenditure for public schools per pupil in average daily attendance or membership for fiscal years 1978-79 and 1979-80. Although this expenditure is below the national average, the state did spend a larger percentage (4.68%) of its citizens' personal income on education in 1977 than the national average (4.5%). Thus, again, the state's low rank on school expenditure is a function of low personal income, rather than low commitment to education.

The National Center for Education Statistics[13] publishes an interesting comparison of the school systems of twenty large cities in the U.S. annually. In fiscal year 1977-78, the New Orleans public school system spent $1,647 per pupil in average daily attendance, compared to the national average for large cities of $2,195. Out of the nineteen cities ranked on this dimension, New Orleans placed fourteenth. The city spent more money per pupil in average daily attendance than did Houston, Indianapolis, Memphis, Phoenix and San Antonio.

Another publication by NCES presents the distribution of school districts by current expenditure per pupil. No school district in Louisiana spent more than $1,600 per pupil in the school year ending 1977; nationally, 22.9% of the school districts spent more than $1,600 per pupil in this school year (see Table 48).

spending by specific purpose

A comparison of the purposes for which Louisiana and the nation expended education funds in 1977-78 is found in Table 49. Louisiana spent less than the national percent for instruction, plant operation and maintenance, and fixed charges in this year. It spent more than the national percent for administration, transportation services and other pupil services, including food services.

III. PERSPECTIVES AND FORECASTING

A. Perspectives on Louisiana Education in the 1970s

educational attainment level

A number of interesting developments occurred in education in Louisiana during the 1970s. The educational attainment of the state's citizens at the beginning of the decade was low: 13.1% of the adult population had fewer than five years of schooling, while only 42.3% of the adult population had completed high school and 9.1% had completed college.[14] By 1976 the U.S. Bureau of the Census indicated that only 8.7% of the adult population lacked a fifth grade education, while 58.3% had completed high school and 11.5% had completed college (see Table 33). Since this trend toward higher educational attainment by the state's adult population can be reasonably assumed to have continued through 1980, the decade of the 1970s was characterized by a marked increase in the absolute educational attainment level of the state's citizens.

However, the state's rank in educational attainment relative to other states failed to improve from 1970-76. Louisiana had the highest percentage in the nation of its adult population with fewer than five years of education in both 1970 and 1976. In 1970 the state ranked forty-second in percent of its adult population with a high school education; the state dropped to forty-third in 1976. Similarly the state dropped from thirty-sixth to forty-first in percent of the adult population with a college education from 1970 to 1976.

Thus, educational attainment in Louisiana during the 1970s was characterized by an improvement in the absolute number of years completed accompanied by a maintenance of rank relative to other states. Why didn't the state improve from 1970 to 1976 relative to other states? Two factors may have contributed to this failure to improve: (1) a very large percentage of the population had fewer than five years of education in 1940 (48.4%), 1950 (37.8%) and 1960 (27.9%) and many of these adults are still in the population in 1980; (2) since the state has an almost negligible migration rate (+0.5% from 1970 to 1977), there is little chance for an in-state migration of higher educated citizens or an out-of-state migration of lower educated ones.

decrease in student enrollment

As noted in Section I, another development in education in Louisiana in the 1970s was the decrease in student enrollment. This decrease was produced solely by a decline in elementary enrollment, while secondary enrollment stayed at the same level during the 1970s. This decrease in student enrollment was accompanied by a decrease in student-teacher ratios in both the public and nonpublic schools.

pupil teacher ratio

While the pupil-teacher ratio decreased steadily throughout the 1970s in the state, Louisiana's national rank changed very little over this period. As noted in Table 39, Louisiana had the thirty-seventh lowest ratio in 1969, compared to the thirty-first lowest in 1979. A PAR analysis[15] on declining enrollments published in 1978 concluded that, "Less can mean more--more competent and enthusiastic teachers, more learning in the classroom and more efficient use of funds and facilities--but only if there is proper planning, sound policies and a commitment to make these objectives a reality."

Recent analyses by Glass and Smith[16] of the studies examining the relationship between class size, student achievement, teacher morale and pupils' attitudes affirm the benefits of smaller classes. The following relationships were discovered by these authors: (1) as class size increases, achievement decreases; (2) in smaller classes, pupils have more interest in learning; and (3) in smaller classes, the morale of the teachers is better. Thus, the trend toward a smaller student-teacher ratio in the 1970s may be regarded as a positive direction for Louisiana elementary and secondary education.

More than 595,000 public and nonpublic students have been transported to and from school annually during the 1970s. The State of Louisiana operates more than 7,171 school buses, at an annual cost of approximately $135.00 per student. These buses have traveled an average of 60 million miles each year. The cost for this transportation, on an annual basis, has risen steadily during the decade with the cost for the 1979-80 school year being approximately $69,366.00. More information for school year 1979-80 can be obtained by examining Item 19 on the State Summary Profile.

special education

The decade of the 1970s was characterized by a large increase in the student population of special education. As noted in Table 16 there was an increase of 68.9% (from 15,851 in 1971-72 to 26,770 in 1979-80) in the population in special education classes in public schools. This increase tells only part of the story, however, since that population includes only those students in self-contained classrooms. According to figures gathered for the minimum foundation program's equalization distribution,[17] there were 82,657 students enrolled in all types of special education classes at the end of the first reporting period in 1978-79. In addition to those students in self-contained classrooms, this figure includes 27,635 students enrolled only in speech therapy and 28,184 enrolled in resource and itinerant special education classrooms. The total number of students in special education in 1977-78 was 82,003, according to the same source. See the State Profile (pg. 78) for a breakdown of the special education students by type of class in 1979-80.

Total expenditures for special education in Louisiana increased exponentially during the 1970s, as can be seen in Table 50. State funds increased by more than 500% from 1972-73 to 1979-80, while federal funds in 1979-80 were thirty-nine times more than in 1972-73.

The passing of Public Law 94-142 (Education for All Handicapped Children Act) by Congress in 1975 was, to a large degree, the impetus behind the expansion of special education in the state. The law calls for individualized schooling for all physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped students. Act 754, which encompasses Louisiana's state regulations in compliance with P. L. 94-142, was implemented in the local school systems in September 1978.

One immediate effect of this emphasis on special education was a dramatic increase in the number of evaluations carried out each year. According to a report on special education by PAR published in 1973[18], there were 8,863 evaluations of children for special education purposes in school year 1972-73. It is estimated[19] that 36,891 evaluations occurred in 1979-80.

The number of children in the gifted and talented category increased from 698 in 1975-76 to 5,414 in 1979-80 according to estimates from the Division of Special Educational Services. Other significant developments in special education in the 1970s included: (1) the establishment of statewide standards for the evaluation of each child (contained in the Pupil Appraisal Handbook, Bulletin 1508) in October 1978; and (2) the introduction of a nondiscriminatory intellectual achievement testing program [the System of Multicultural Pluralistic Assessment (SOMPA)] for placement in special education.

vocational technical education

Slightly over $100 million was invested in the expansion of Louisiana's vocational-technical system to fifty-one schools during the 1970s. Enrollment and expenditures for vocational education programs from 1971-72 through 1979-80 are found in Table 51. The majority of the secondary students counted in Table 51 are in city/parish school systems; for example, in 1978-79 only 1,642 secondary students[20] were enrolled in vocational-technical schools while the remainder were in vocational programs in the city/parish schools.

Vocational Education Amendments of 1976 (Public Law 94-482) mandated new vocational activities including a displaced homemakers' program, the establishment of a sex equity coordinator position and special vocational education programs for handicapped persons. The displaced homemakers' program now has seven centers and enrolls approximately 1,000 students at the three centers which became operational in 1979.[21] Vocational programs for students with limited English speaking skills were also initiated in Louisiana during the decade.

Vocational education has begun an effort to meet the priority needs of energy education. The lignite coal deposit in northwest Louisiana has become a focal point in increased job opportunities in this section of our state. In response to this energy source, the Division of Vocational Education has funded a Research and Training Project to provide flexibility in skills training to meet the needs of lignite coal related industry.

adult education

Adult education continued to play an important role in Louisiana education during the 1970s; 10,838 students received the general equivalency diploma in 1979, and 11,211 did in 1980.[22] See Table 52 for a summary of enrollment, achievement and termination information for students in adult education from 1974-79.

B. Forecasting Louisiana Education in the 1980s.

It appears that several factors that influenced education in the 70s will continue to do so in the 80s.

- Declining student enrollment in elementary and secondary schools will continue through 1982-83. The Louisiana Board of Regents predicts that there will be an overall decrease in total enrollment through school year 1982-83, with modest increases occurring in 1983-84 and 1984-85. See Table 53 for enrollment projections by grade level through 1984-85.

- Enrollment in special education classes will continue to increase dramatically. According to P.L. 94-142 each child enrolled in special education must be provided an individual education plan, written in cooperation with school officials, teacher and parents. Further, renovation of some school facilities will be necessary because of the 94-142 legislation which requires that school sites be accessible and usable by the handicapped.

- Desegregation continues to be an important issue in the 1980s. Several districts continue to be involved in litigation. According to a 1979 HEW civil rights survey,[23] Louisiana ranked second behind Alabama in the list of states with the most segregated districts in the nation. This report[24] continues to be disputed by many Louisiana school officials and is a reflection of the importance of this issue. The Brumfield vs. Dodd case[25] will continue to have an impact upon school district funding since this decision made it unconstitutional for the state to give assistance to any racially discriminatory or segregated nonpublic school. Not only is elementary and secondary education involved in this dispute, but also our college and university system is being scrutinized by the federal government as the decade of the 80s begins.

- Accountability and assessment will continue to be important in the 1980s. The 1979 Competency-Based Education Act 750 provided for the coordination of the previous student assessment and personnel evaluation activities begun under Act 621. Act 750 requires an eventual merging of the Louisiana State Assessment Program and the Miniumum Competency Testing Program. (The MCT program is now being called the Basic Skills Testing Program in order to communicate more effectively with parents and citizens.) The total program will become the Louisiana Literacy Assessment Program. The fall testing program of reading, mathematics and writing in grades 4, 8, and 11 will be converted to a spring testing program in grades 3, 7, and 10 in the 1980-81 school year. Act 750 requires the implementation of the Louisiana Literacy Assessment Program, and a component of this is the Basic Skills Testing Program. The program will be implemented in the 1980-81 school year with the development and piloting of Grade 2 test items based on the basic skills minimum standards. In 1981-82 the test will be utilized as the principal criterion for a student's promotion to Grade 3. Each year thereafter an additional grade will be added for purposes of basic skills testing until all student grades 2-12 are being tested each year.

- Collective bargaining will be an important issue for Louisiana teachers in the 1980s. The Louisiana Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Teachers, has approximately 13,000 members in Louisiana in 23 city/parish school districts.[26] The Louisiana Association of Educators, associated with the National Education Association, has 28,200 members in all sixty-six city/parish school systems.[27] Unlike many other states, Louisiana has no collective bargaining statute for public employees. However, in 1980 two bills were introduced in this area. Several districts, including Jefferson, Orleans and East Baton Rouge had teacher strikes in the latter part of the 1970s and collective bargaining remains a viable issue before many local school boards.

- Act 750 of the State Legislature called for compensatory programs for students who fail to meet the mastery level of the Basic Skills Tests as established by the Board of Elementary and Secondary Education. Act 433 of the 1980 legislative session provided funds for pilot compensatory programs for the 1980 school year. Fifteen pilot projects were funded under Act 433 in the following parishes: St. Bernard, Orleans, Jefferson, St. Charles, Bossier, West Carroll, Tangipahoa, East Baton Rouge, Lafayette, Calcasieu, Acadia, Iberville, St. John, St. Landry, and Ascension. Additionally, two consortiums of North Louisiana parishes were funded.[28] These pilot projects were established to assist the state in identifying appropriate kinds of remedial and/or compensatory instruction.

- Personnel evaluation is expected to accelerate during the 1980s. Although this responsibility belongs primarily to the local district, the state's monitoring role is likely to increase. To further strengthen the quality of teachers and administrators entering the teaching profession in Louisiana, Act 16 of the 1977 Special Legislative Session made passing the NTE a requirement for receiving initial state teaching certification. Act 236 created the Professional Practices

Commission in 1980. This commission will establish and create a code of ethics for school personnel, with approval by the Board of Elementary and Secondary Education. The (PIPS) Professional Improvement Plan was created by Act 207 in 1980 with the purpose of improving teacher competencies. The legislation allows teachers and other school administrators to create professional improvement plans for themselves and upon successful completion of these programs to receive substantial salary increases.

- Funding Sources expected to decline during the first half of the 1980s. The election of a conservative president and a corresponding conservative move on local and state levels signals a tightening in federal spending in education. The Reagan administration has pledged to decentralize educational decision-making with a move toward the block grant concept. In effect, this would mean that federal dollars would come to the local and state levels, and at those levels decisions would be made concerning educational priorities. It is expected that total revenue coming to the states from the federal government will be significantly less than in the previous years. For example, at this writing, the Arts and Humanities grant program had been reduced by $85 million.

Two recent publications, Louisiana: Priorities for the Future (sponsored by Governor Edwards, the Louisiana Legislature and the Council for a Better Louisiana) and Focus on the '80s - 20/20 Solutions (published by the Public Affairs Research Council)[29], listed recommendations to improve education in Louisiana during the next decade. The priorities for education recommended in Louisiana: Priorities for the Future are as follows:

1. Establish minimum proficiency requirements for students at all levels of education.
2. Review and upgrade certification standards for teachers, supervisors and administrative personnel with special emphasis on requiring proficiency in English and other basic skills.
3. Support classroom teachers with programs and policies to raise their effectiveness.
4. Establish a clearly defined, ongoing evaluation system for teachers, supervisors and administrators at the elementary, secondary and college levels - particularly for granting tenure.
5. Develop effective and appropriate approaches to deal with discipline problems.
6. Provide students with the best start possible in their academic careers.
7. Establish comprehensive guidance programs at all grade levels.
8. Develop and expand all programs for gifted and talented students.

9. Provide adequate funding of public education at all levels on a continuing basis to make quality education a reality.
10. Make a firm commitment to develop community support for public education.
11. Reorganize the structure and functioning of higher education.

Several of these priorities (1, 2, and 4) relate to teacher evaluation and student assessment. Highly recommended actions to accomplish priority three include providing adequate time for preparation and planning during school hours, extending employment to include a minimum of 10 extra days for teachers to use for planning and in-service training, and increasing teacher pay with built-in cost of living raises.

One recommended action to deal with discipline problems was to adopt a five-year "reduction in classroom size" schedule. In order to provide students with the best start possible in their academic careers, one recommendation was to initiate a mandatory kindergarten program statewide for all children aged five. One recommendation to make quality education a reality (priority nine) was to re-establish the dedication of the Severance Tax and other specific funds to education through a constitutional amendment.

In addition to these general education priorities, the report suggested five priorities in reworking the curriculum of public schools. These priorities are: (1) emphasize the basic skills: reading, speaking, writing, listening and mathematical computation; (2) encourage innovative new curricula designed to provide Louisiana's students with the basic skills and knowledge necessary to function successfully in today's complex society; (3) establish an intensive college preparatory curriculum; (4) pursue active programs for continuing and adult education; and (5) improve and expand the state's vocational/technical education programs.

The Public Affairs Research Council publication made the following recommendations for education changes in the 1980s:

1. Revamp the state school aid formula.
2. Improve teacher competency.
3. Abolish tenure for school administrators.
4. Change terms of local school boards.
5. Improve administration of vo-tech schools.
6. Appoint the state superintendent of the education.

The broad spectrum concerns in these publications encompass both student-oriented and educator-oriented priorities.

It appears that no comprehensive legislative packages will be introduced in the next few years since most of the measures dealing with improved student performance (Acts 621, 750, 688 and PL 94-142 and 95-207) and legislation affecting teachers (Act 20, 718, 261, 379, 756, 757, 16 and 236) have been enacted. Rather, the focus for educational improvements for the early years of the 1980s shall be to successfully implement the intent of previously passed legislation. School improvement is expected to occur in two areas: (1) increasing student performance and (2) upgrading opportunities for professional development of Louisiana educators. The 1980s promise to be an era of continued growth and improvement for the Louisiana educational system.

IV. THEME OF THE YEAR - SCHOOL ACCREDITATION

Effective planning is the essence of school improvement. The purpose of this _One Hundred and Thirty-first Annual Report_ is to provide accurate statistical data so that administrators may have the proper information needed for good decision-making. In keeping with this theme of school improvement we are including this short section to provide an explanation of the Louisiana Public School Accreditation Program.

In 1978, the Louisiana Educational Accountability Act, Act 621, mandated the following:

- _391.9 Public School Accreditation_: The Superintendent is charged with developing and instituting accreditation standards for public schools based upon the attainment of education objectives and goals.
- _391.6 Content Course Evaluation_: The State Department of Education shall conduct studies of the effectiveness of various courses, in addition to the basic communication and computation skill courses, offered by the public schools of this state. Such studies shall include details of specific objectives of the courses and the level of achievement attained by students.

In accordance with the law, the Bureau of Development, Office of Research and Development, coordinated the development of an accreditation system for public schools and parishes utilizing on-site reviews. The system was first termed the Program Accreditation Review but is now designated as the Program Assistance and Approval System (PAAS).

The purpose of the system is to improve the quality of education in Louisiana school systems. Accreditation standards for schools and parishes were developed from legislation, regulations, and recognized best practices. These standards serve as the basis for on-site reviews to determine areas of need in parishes and schools and to ensure appropriate change to upgrade educational programs.

Standards as well as evidence-based specific methods were developed and extensively reviewed by State Department of Education personnel and a statewide advisory committee representing local educational agencies, the Board of Elementary and Secondary Education, and other educational interest groups. An outside consultant firm, Evaluation Systems Design, Inc. (ESDI), was employed also to assist in the development of the accreditation process and the recording instruments for the program review.

During the 1979-80 school year developmental work was initiated on the accreditation system; standards, examination methods, and instrumentation were developed; the SEA planning committee and the Statewide Advisory Committee were involved in technical reviews of the standards, methods and instruments; pre-field testing and assessment were completed in selected parishes and schools; and a full-scale field testing was completed in Jefferson, Lafourche, St. Bernard, and Webster Parishes that included on-site visits to all parish offices and twenty-two schools. The primary purpose of the field test was to ensure that the logistics and procedures of the accreditation were feasible, the standards were reasonable and could be implemented, the examination methods and instrumentation were effective, and the involvement of all divisions of the State Department of Education in the accreditation visits could be accomplished. Assessment obtained from parish and school field testing reviews indicated that the accreditation system was effective and could yield valuable data and information.

While there is considerable work to be completed during the 1980-81 year before a statewide system of accreditation can be implemented, the accreditation program is beginning to take shape. Plans for this year's field testing include on-site visits to Bossier, Iberia, Calcasieu, Morehouse, Rapides, and Washington Parishes. The ultimate goals of the accreditation program are to verify that:

- parishes and schools are providing sound instructional programs (Program Standards)
- parishes are properly managing and maintaining schools (School Site and Parish Standards)
- students are learning (Student Performance Standards)

As can be determined from the listing of standards below there are three basic domains -- Instructional, Assistance, and Operations. The focus of the 1.0.0 Domain: Instruction - is on the needs of individual students that are met through the instructional program in the schools and parish. Also, student acquisition of basic skills is of central concern in the review of all programs. The scope of the Instruction Domain includes Design, Delivery, Management, and Direction of the instructional programs.

The focus of the 2.0.0 Domain: Student Assistance - is on the needs of individual students that are met beyond the classroom level. Such needs include information about careers, corrective medical care, help with personal problems, changes in behavior and different or more intensive instruction. Scope of the Assistance Domain includes Design, Delivery, Coordination, and Direction of Assistance programs.

The third domain, 3.0.0: Operations - is on functions and conditions which must be provided to make possible the education of students. There are three sections of standards and reviews -- school plant management, school plant operations, and central office functions.

1.0.0 INSTRUCTIONAL DOMAIN

Graph 2 is an example of protocol, standards, criteria, review, evidence, and additional information included on review instruments. The review evidence includes three types -- P (physical), T (testimony), and O (observation).

Graph 3 is the findings summary form utilized for each standard.

A five-year cycle of on-site accreditation visits, to thirteen parishes each year, will be initiated in 1981-82 and will be concluded by the end of the 1985-86 year. Thereafter, a three- to five-year cycle of on-site accreditation visits will be planned and implemented as an on-going process for Louisiana school systems and schools.

It is anticipated that the SDE accreditation team will consist of fifteen to eighteen members, dependent upon the enrollment in the parish/city school systems. On-site visits will generally last five days.

Monitoring of educational programs is required by federal and state regulations in areas such as Vocational Education, Special Education, and Title I. Incorporation of these monitoring efforts into the Program

Assistance and Approval System will reduce disruption to the parishes caused by multiple, uncoordinated visits as well as increase the comprehensiveness of the conclusions emanating from the on-site reviews and provide for judicious use of SDE personnel and resources. Development of corrective action plans will then reflect consideration of all aspects of parish and school educational programs. The accreditation system must be expanded to incorporate all feasible federal and state monitoring of educational programs.

Although benefit may be derived from a simple status report of results and conclusions based on on-site review, the most effective use of results from an on-site visit will be the development of a corrective action plan for the parish that details the specific steps to be taken in improving educational programs, timelines for the steps, and the types and sources of technical assistance to be employed in the change process. The format and procedures for corrective action planning must be developed, tested in at least three parishes, and revised based on the formative evaluation results.

The two key words in the Program Assistance and Approval System are Assistance and Approval. The ultimate goal is the upgrading of educational quality through an assistance process. The State Department of Education will obviously be carrying out a regulatory responsibility but staff will be working in a positive way with LEA personnel to provide corrective action relative to overcoming program deficiencies.

It is generally agreed by those who have been involved in the regional accreditation process -- i.e., Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, etc. -- that the self-evaluation conducted by staff prior to on-site reviews is the most beneficial aspect. It is probable that the same will be true in the state accreditation process.

It is important for LEA personnel to recognize that PAAS legislation was not mandated by the State Department of Education. Like most of competency based education legislation, programs were mandated by the varied publics through their state legislators.

The PAAS development represents SDE-LEA teamwork and can be a unique movement assuming such teamwork continues. The school children and parish systems are the ultimate beneficiaries.

PROTOCOL	STANDARD
1.1.1 SCOPE/SEQUENCE FOR INSTRUCTION	A continuous program of skills, concepts, and instruction is planned and implemented within and across sequential courses and grade levels.

CRITERIA	REVIEW EVIDENCE
1. Teachers use the parish adopted written scope and • sequence in planning daily instruction.	P - Obtain a copy of the document containing the parish scope and sequence of skills to determine that a scope and sequence is being used for the program area under review. Examine it to determine that it contains a scope and sequence as defined. P - Obtain and examine the teacher's plans for daily instruction to determine that a scope and sequence is being used. O - Observe in selected classrooms to verify that the teacher is using the scope and sequence in the delivery of instruction.
2. Minimum student performance standards and skills • established by the state are included in appropriate courses and levels.	P - Obtain and examine copies of state minimum performance standards for regular or special education. Verify that the minimum performance standards are reflected in the teacher's plans for daily instruction or IEP.
3. Established mastery criteria for course or IEP • skills are used by the teacher.	P - Examine the scope and sequence and the performance measures associated with the end of course or IEP. Verify that mastery criteria have been established through written department, school, or parish guidelines, and are used by the teacher for exit from the course.
4. Developmental stages of students and any special • handicapping conditions are taken into account in implementing the scope and sequence.	P - Obtain and examine IEP's, lesson plans, student work, etc. to determine that modification in the type and number of skills to be mastered occurs in accordance with the ability or performance characteristics of individual students.
5. Consistency exists between the parish scope and • sequence and the parish pupil progression plan.	P - Obtain and examine the parish pupil progression plan to determine that the criteria in the plan reflect attainment of scope and sequence skills.
6. Criteria specified in the pupil progression plan, • including those based on minimum competency testing, are used by the teacher in recommending student promotions.	P - Obtain and examine last year's teacher records or recommendations for promotion. Sample at least 2 recommendations for promotion and non-promotion. Determine that the recommendations are based on criteria (including minimum competency testing skills) in the pupil progression plan.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Scope and sequence is a collection of skills together with mastery criteria, organized in such a way as to structure teaching and learning. It is more descriptive and specific than a course outline. A scope and sequence delineates the type, number, and order of skills to be mastered within and across courses and/or grade levels. The purpose of this standard is to verify that the parish has planned and teachers are using a scope and sequence together with a pupil progression plan. A pupil progression plan is an established set of guidelines determining the qualifications for moving from one course or grade level to the next.

1979-80 was the first year that the districts were asked to report the number of Hispanic, American Indian and Asian principals, and classroom achers. Some districts noted difficulty in reporting this information, so there is probably an undercount of principals and classroom s from these ethnic groups for this year.

[a] Instructional personnel for the public schools includes librarians, guidance counselors, speech therapists, coaches and federal program personnel. Public school personnel does not include principals.

[b] Instructional personnel for the nonpublic schools includes full-time and part-time teachers, principals and librarians. Principals were included because it was not possible to disaggregate them from classroom teachers given the available data.

[c] Data was not available for the number of nonpublic special elementary and secondary teachers for 1970-71, 1971-72, and 1972-73. Therefore, students in special education during this period were assigned to regular elementary or secondary education classifications and were then used in calculating the ratios for regular nonpublic elementary and secondary education for those years. In 1970-71, 1,359 special education students were assigned to the elementary classification and 59 were assigned to the secondary classification. In 1971-72, 970 were assigned to elementary and 79 to secondary; in 1972-73, 1,566 were assigned to elementary and 98 to secondary.

[d] Includes two students who were postgraduates.

[e] Lafayette Parish failed to report data on nonpublic personnel for 1979-80. Data from 1978-79 were substituted for the missing 1979-80 data in the compilation of the totals for 1979-80.

* Experience of principals and teachers was reported by the districts in 1979-80 in the following categories: 0 years, 1-2 years, 3-5 years, 6-9 years, 10-12 years, 13-14 years and 15 or more years. This categorization is different from that reported for the years 1970-78. In order to obtain comparable data across the decade, an extrapolation was performed on the 1979-80 data. Category 0-4 years experience for 1979-80 includes categories 0, 1-2 years and 2/3 of the number reported for category 3-5 years. Category 5-9 years experience for 1979-80 includes 1/3 of the number reported for category 3-5 years plus all those in category 6-9 years.

[*] The source for these figures is the Executive Budget of the State of Louisiana, 1970-71 through 1979-80. These are actual expenditure figures, not budgeted figures, for the years 1970-78.

[a] Expenditures for education include those for the Louisiana State Department of Education, LSU, all other colleges and universities, boards and special schools and vocational-technical schools.

[b] This figure does not include salaries for elected state officials.

[c] The figures for 1978-79 and 1979-80 are budgeted figures, not actual expenditures.

* These totals do not include students in kindergarten or special education. The total figures for the projections for grades 2-12 do not equal the combined projections for public and nonpublic schools. The reason for this is that each phase of the model-public, nonpublic, total-uses numbers relative to that phase only. The projections for 1980-85 were made by Mr. Larry Goux of the Louisiana Board of Regents. His projections exclude kindergarten and special education students.

SCHOOL DISTRICT PROFILES

General Explanation

This is the second year of the annual report in which data gathered for each of the parish/city districts are in one place. Previously, data on each parish/city district had been spread throughout the report in several summary tables. Further, this is the first time a Louisiana State Summary Profile has been included in this publication. The Bureau of Research hopes that this revamping of the format will aid readers who are interested in detailed information on a particular school district.

Please note the following general points about the profiles:

(1) In many of the tables, particularly those for the smaller districts, the value of the entry for a number of the items was zero. In certain subtotals, blanks appear rather than zeros in order to avoid redundancy. There is only one place in the profile where a blank does not mean a zero: in the projections for kindergarten and special education membership in items 2 and 3, the blanks indicate that the Board of Regents did not make projections for those categories.

(2) The Bureau of Research is grateful to Mr. Larry Goux of the Board of Regents' staff for supplying the projections for school membership for 1980-84.

(3) The entry NA in item 20 means that information from nonpublic schools was not available for those categories.

(4) In item 20, the districts were ranked from the one with the largest value (1) to the one with the smallest value (66) on all categories except two: (a) the ratio of public pupils to teachers where the district with the smallest ratio was ranked first and the one with the largest ratio was ranked last, and (b) the ratio of nonpublic pupils to teachers where the district with the smallest ratio was ranked first and the one with the largest ratio was ranked last.

(5) Note that only 54 districts had nonpublic schools, so the range for rank on the ratio of nonpublic pupils to teachers was only from 1 to 54.

(6) For the cities of Monroe and Bogalusa, projection figures (items 2 and 3) and per capita income figures (item 20) were not available on the city level; refer to the parish profiles of Ouachita and Washington for parish figures including the cities.
